

Celebrating Fremont's 50th: The Impossible Dream

Never in history did five individual towns unite as they did in Fremont; never did such an area take on self-government at one fell swoop; and never did an effort toward municipality mean so much to its citizenry as it did here.”

Robert Coop, Fremont's First City Manager

The Fremont Main Library is honored to host an evening with founding fathers Don Dillon and Jack Parry, who will tell the story of the city's birth as no one else can.
